The following guidelines are mandatory for any Daystall farmer sampling inside or outside (on the street) of the Pike Place Market or any farmer sampling at a Pike Place Express Market. It is the responsibility of the permit holder to be sure that all of the following guidelines are strictly observed at their tables at any time a product is being sampled. The guidelines are listed according to the products they apply to.

Any Product:

- Hand-washing station present in booth or behind table consisting of a five-gallon container of hot, free flowing water, hand soap, paper towels, and a bucket to catch waste water. Hand-washing stations may be shared between two farmers only if they both have tables directly next to each other and the station is located directly behind and in between both of them (two outside booths may not share).

Exemption: If samples are prepackaged in an approved kitchen before being brought to the market and are never handled by anyone between then and when it is sampled, a hand washing station does not need to be present.

- Food Handlers Permit(s) for at least one person working the booth that day (you must be able to present a copy when asked).
- No bare hand contact with food whatsoever. Gloves, tooth picks or single-service articles of a similar variety may be used. If single-service articles are present at the front of the booth for customers to sample as they please, there must be something in place to ensure that customers only touch one at a time (i.e. a dispenser).
- If sampled product is not stored behind counter, there must be a sneeze guard or similar protective barrier protecting any sampled product.
- If utensils are used, sanitizer water should be present. Sanitizer water must be replaced every two hours or when water becomes cloudy or murky, whichever comes first.

Produce:

- All sampled produce must be washed. Hand-washing stations may not be used to wash produce. Correct sinks must be used or a separate produce-washing station must be set up at booth or behind table.

Perishable Items (anything that must be stored below 41 degrees F):

- Samples can not be kept above 41 degrees F for more than four hours. Any product stored above 41 degrees F must be timed and either returned to the proper temperature before four hours has passed or disposed of after four hours has passed.
