IV. Presentation and Discussion Items

A. Education Program

Scott Davies presented on the Pike Place Market PDA Education Program. He provided an annual overview of the 2013-2014 School Program including new updates to the program this year. Scott reported that the School Program had hosted 94 classes from 48 various schools this year from grade levels one through high school; he added that he had also met with City University MBA students to discuss how the Market works. A summary of 2013-2014 School Program presentation was noted as follows:

- There were a total of 85 presentations in Classrooms including presentations at three Seattle high schools involving cooking demos with Wellness & Nutrition classes
- Five schools produced their own School Markets
- Ten schools did food drives to help support the Market food bank; a total of 1,930 pounds of food was donated along with funds of $397.84
- Scott had met with the Director of Nutrition Services for the Seattle Public Schools to discuss applying for a USDA Farm to School grant; they had declined to apply this year but hopefully there will be an opportunity to partner with them in the future
- Twenty volunteers, including PDA Council member Gloria Skouge donated 594 hours during the school year
- We are a partner with the City of Seattle and School's Out Washington in their Let's Get Cookin' series for grants recipients
- The Pike Place Market PDA Website was updated with educational curriculum and resources that went live August 11
- 41 teachers have already signed up to participate in our school program for the next school year

There was a discussion that followed from the committee regarding the School Program.

Bruce Burger inquired on what specific programs were worth expanding within the Education Program.

Rico Quirindongo noted that it could be helpful having the Educational materials available through the mobile version of the PPM PDA website.

B. Pike Place Producers: “Behind the Table” Event

Kathi Allen, Market Craftsperson presented on a new event for the Market called Pike Place Producers “Behind the Table” held this October in the Market. She stated that the goal was to raise $50,000 to support the Market Community Safety Net Fund. Kathi discussed details on the event including an auction opportunity for the Craftspeople to briefly tell their story and talk about their craft.

There was a brief discussion that followed from the committee.

C. Waterfront Entrance Plaza Programming Opportunities

Ben Franz-Knight presented on programming opportunities for the Pike Place Market Waterfront Entrance Plaza; a copy of the presentation materials was included with the meeting minute’s record.

Ann Magnano commented on the PPMWE design and noted that their current location of the PPM Farmers Market is where the Farmers are known to be; she noted that she had a difficult time visualizing the Farmers Market location at the PPMWE space.

David Ghoddousi noted that the updated PPMWE design looks more open and engaging but was concerned in knowing how the programming will actually function once the space is built.

V. Concerns of Committee Members

None

VI. Public Comment

Howard Aller commented on the PPMWE and noted that Seattle has a strict policy for cooking food outside to publically serve but has more relaxed guidelines to sell food when it has been already cooked and prepared.

Joan Paulson commented on the summer marketing materials that were distributed to the public which included recipes; she noted that there was not nutritional information listed with those recipes given out.

IX. Adjournment
